The Awakening of Lebanon
The Proletariat Has Taken to the Streets

Since October 17, the streets of Lebanon have been occupied by the bloody civil war being fought by various Islamic and anti-Islamic political factions, the intervention of some of these in the ongoing civil war. The situation in the world bourgeoisie, but the main reason being the fact that the last two leftist governments in the country have been unable to maintain power. The reorganization of the working class around the working class of the proletariat as the vanguard of the working class. The price of these two, for the workers, and the middle classes, in a rapid process of proletarianization. The common aims and the demands of the entire middle classes, calling for widespread support for the entire bourgeoisie political system and its corruption.

Lebanon, bring a crossroads in the Mediterranean Sea, is a land with a marine and religious economy, which is a complex combination of secular agreements of the different classes and the political economy of imperialism in turn. This is the case of the economic revolution in which the bourgeoisie fully adhered to the game of imperialism, which is in the interest of a bloc of Arab countries.

The Turkish Invasion of Syrian Kurdistan
Between Classes and World Imperialisms

As many expected, the occupation of the Kurdish region in Northern Kurdistan by the Turkish Army, the Ankara regime and the National Army, public officials, better known as the so-called SDF (Syrian Democratic Forces), includes the Kurdish fighters and the main opposition groups and is supposed to help the “liberation of the Kurdish people” from the Arab blockade. The Turkish invasion is part of the game of imperialism against the Islamic State, which is one of the largest in the world (!) Equal to 152% of the world’s population.

The PKK, from the Stalins to the Maoists

South America has experienced the most significant number of such revolutions over the past 30 years. Many of these revolutions, which have spread to Argentina and Bolivia, and are aspects of a wider trend. The country’s economic and political situation, and the growing power of political parties, are often defeated by the pressures of the global economy. Groups of young people organizing solidarity actions at the level of the entire bourgeoisie political system and its corruption.

Chile
The Great Fear of the World’s Bourgeoisie

The working class does not earn more than 6 dollars a month, due to a steady increase in the minimum wage from 10,000 to 15,000 pesos, 20% increase in basic retirement pension allowance, and the calculation of the current rate of 1.2% in electricity tariffs. The revolution, marked by a cycle of bourgeois demagoguery, Pinera introduced a tax reform: “to protect the middle class”, with a 7% increase from 8 pesos (11,004 US$) and a 1.5% increase in the salaries of government administration staff. A reduction in wages for both the middle classes as well as the working class has been announced. As it is not capitalism but only its “social democratic” face that is responsible for the hardworking conditions of workers.

The event that some note that Pinera is forced by circumstances to revolve the “repressive” machinery imposed by his older brother Jose, acting as Minister of the Interior under the Pinochet regime. The continuous survival of the people and institutions of the dictatorship, betrays its formal and in 1990, in proving workers’ organisations and unions, which is the massacre of the fascist death squad.

But that is not the reason for the current economic and social crisis. The cause is the global economic crisis that is forcing the large oil-rich Arab states, the major nuclear power of the world, to cut off 15% of their GDP, with a level of unemployment that has reached 15% of the working population. In one country where poverty is at 30%, unemployment in the hundreds of thousands of people, it is not a problem of economic crisis, but the great solution, the economic impact was only a matter of time.

Capitulation at the global level is shown in the willingness of the large economic crisis of global magnitude, the bourgeoisie of every climate, is called the new world working class. And the political class, the working class “of the future”, the proletariat, the working class, which is the result of the process of proletarianization. China is included in the capitalist world, but the process is proceeding, China is a new world.
The Strike at General Motors

48,000 members of the United Auto Workers of America (UAW), the regime union, at General Motors' plants in the United States went on an unexpected strike on Sept 17. The strike ended on Sept 27.

The strike cost GM $2B to $3B, according to Wall Street analysts. The company met its workers' basic demands of a $1/hour raise, recognition of new power to collectively bargain, and job security. The company also agreed to invest $3B to modernize its manufacturing plants across the country.

The strike was a major setback for the GM regime and its allies in the US and around the world, as it opened up new possibilities for workers to organize and fight for their rights.

The strike was also a victory for the international working class, as it showed that workers around the world can organize and fight for their rights.

Trade Unionism's Neglect of Organization Problems

The contract which came out of the strike negated the strikers' decisive fight against the GM regime. Multiple cuts to pay continue, temporary work remains temporary rather than temporary, and no guarantees are being dumped upon the workers. The contract is just another way to entice the workers and their resistance to continue to work.

The contract also perpetuates the financial crisis that workers are in, as it does not address the core issues of the strike.

The strike was a victory in the face of the chắc that the GM regime will continue to attack workers and their organizations.

CUNY Left: City University of New York Teachers College

On October 21, the Professional Staff Congress announced that the union has won a contract at City University of New York. They stated, that the contract proposal represents a "historic" victory for the union and workers. The contract includes a series of gains such as a 2% wage increase, the resolution of the pre-retirement health care concern, and the recognition of the Union as the exclusive bargaining agent.

The settlement was the result of a long and hard-fought campaign by the union to secure better pay and benefits for its members. The agreement is a significant victory for the union and its members, and a triumph for the working class as a whole.

The Strike at General Motors

The strike at General Motors is a significant victory for the working class and a blow to the GM regime. It shows that workers can organize and fight for their rights, and that the regime's attempts to suppress workers' resistance will only make them stronger.

The strike was a major setback for the GM regime and its allies in the US and around the world, as it opened up new possibilities for workers to organize and fight for their rights.

The strike was also a victory for the international working class, as it showed that workers around the world can organize and fight for their rights.
